A large, elaborate Indonesian meal, likely Rendang, is presented on a black stone surface. The central dish is a large white plate featuring a mound of white rice topped with fried shallots and a pile of golden-brown fried crackers (krupuk). Surrounding this central plate are numerous small white bowls containing various side dishes, including rendang (spicy beef in coconut milk), sayur paku (fried ferns), and other traditional Indonesian dishes. The background is a dark, textured surface.
