THE THREE C'S OF MATCHING BEER WITH FOOD...

CUT: Refers to the pairing of beer with food to cleanse the palate or break through heavier foods that are cheesy or fatty.

SUGGESTIONS:

Lefte Blonde with Cheese Croquettes, Duvel with Chicken Parma or Rodenbach Grand Cru with Fried Camembert

COMPLIMENT: Refers to pairings in which the beer will emphasise the prominent flavours in the food. This allows for similar flavours to engage, blend and therefore enhance the experience.

SUGGESTIONS:

Kwak with Porterhouse Steak, Exit Milk Stout with Belgian Waffles or Stella Artois with Fish and Chips.

CONTRAST: Beer and food combinations with different flavour profiles that can change and accentuate desirable flavours in both aspects. Try a heavy, darker beer with a creamy dish, a hoppy beer with a spicy dish or a soft pale ale with a savoury dish to appreciate this method of pairing.

SUGGESTIONS:

Rocheport 10 with Rocheport Mussels, Lindemans Pecheresse with Calamari or Wolf of the Willows XPA with the Belgian Beef Burger.

TRAPPIST ALE

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

EVER WONDERED WHAT TRAPPIST MEANS?

The Trappist monks are derived from an ancient order known as Benedictine monks. They adhere to strict religious beliefs that revolve around prayer and manual labour. Traditionally these monasteries have supported themselves and in doing so have had to brew their own beer. As of 2015 there are 11 monasteries that have continued this tradition. They sell their beer to support the monastery and the local community. In order to be deemed an authentic Trappist brewery strict guidelines must be adhered. These include:

1. The beer must be brewed within the walls of a Trappist monastery, either by the monks themselves or under their supervision.
2. The brewery must be of secondary importance within the monastery and it should witness to the business practices proper to a monastic way of life
3. The brewery is not intended to be a profit-making venture. The income covers the living expenses of the monks and the maintenance of the buildings and grounds. Whatever remains is donated to charity for social work and to help persons in need.
